From Brand: Aboriginal Studies Press : Being Black: Aboriginal Cultures in Settled Australia before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Being Black: Aboriginal Cultures in Settled Australia:

Bringing together the results of research by anthropologists on the social life of people formerly labeled part-Aborigines or urban Aborigines, this volume discusses issues including the bases of identity, the ties of family, the structure of community, ways of speaking, beliefs and feelings about the country, and attitudes toward history.

About the Author Ian Keen is an eminent and widely published anthropologist who retired from teaching at the end of 2002 and is currently a visiting fellow in the School of Archaeology and Anthropology at the Australian National University.
